RARE Bear #1191 completes his journey to England!

We received the sweetest note from Lizzie and her Mom, letting us know Mr. Bear arrived safely at their home in Devon and is already hard at work putting a smile on Lizzie’s face.

“Just wanted to say a huge thank you from Lizzie in Devon England. She is totally thrilled with her RARE bear named "Mr Bear". He has been on many adventures already. He likes shopping and holidaying in our touring caravan. She can’t believe the great adventure he’s had just getting to England. I cannot thank you enough for making her so happy. What you do for these children is absolutely amazing. Her bear’s number is 1191. We would like to say a special thank you to the person that has made this bear. Also your selection process is brilliant.”

The RARE Bear-Child Matching Process

Some of you have asked us what happens to the RARE Bears once you send them in to the RARE team. This process accounts for time for bear placement and receiving a picture.

The RARE Bear MASH Unit looks at every bear to ensure there is nothing that could put its assigned child at risk. The bears are checked to make sure they are made of 100% cotton, there are no pieces attached that could be removed by a child, such as button eyes, that all seams are properly closed to prevent the stuffing from coming out, and the bear's authentication or donor tag is inserted in the back seam.

Why we do what we do: sweet Nova received her bear at a gifting just last month. Back in the hospital, her RARE Bear Sparkle is right by her side!

The RARE team then identifies the best child to receive the bear based on age and gender. They review information provided by the parents such as their child's favorite color, hobbies, if they have a favorite movie character (Minions, Batman, Frozen...). A great deal of effort is put into the matching process, and judging by the gallery of photographs on our website (http://www.rarescience.org/rare-bear-program/rare-bear-kids/) the kids love their bear from the minute the box is opened. As many of you know, we request a photo of the child with their RARE Bear, which we in turn send back to the bear maker. There sometimes can be a delay in getting the photo from the family, but rest assured, when we receive the photo, it is sent to the bear maker to enjoy as quickly as we can. Not all families will provide a photo, and in those instances, we endeavor to let the bear maker know the RARE Bear they so lovingly created has a new home.

For every bear Tammy Campos and her quilt group made, they also made a “twin” bear which was given as a Christmas gift to someone special along with a sweet card explaining the “twin” RARE Bear being gifted to a child with a rare disease.
